

Systems Requirements Specification
Grading Rubric
Spring 2012

Team: _____

Item	Points Available	Points Received	Comments
1 Introduction <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Purpose of the document is clear • Intended readership and why the document is relevant to each group is specified • An overview of the document's contents is given • References are formatted according to APA standards • Purpose of the Product is complete, clear, and concise • Product Scope refers the reader to the top-level use case diagram. The diagram is sufficiently described in general terms (don't use UML terms). • Top-level use case diagram is complete and uses correct UML notation. Use cases are numbered and have strong verb-noun names. 	15
2 Functional Requirements <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All FRs from the top-level use case diagram have corresponding use case specifications with corresponding numbers and names • Any complex top-level use case diagrams are broken down into sub-use case diagrams, with corresponding use case specifications • Any sub-use case diagrams use correct UML notation • CRUD use cases are handled consistently • Use case specifications are written in a consistent, clear style 	25
3 Non-functional Requirements <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The NFRs are well-organized • The NFRs are prioritized • The NFRs are clear, concise, and testable 	15
4 & 5 Deliverables & Open Issues <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All deliverables are listed with their formats (e.g., hard copy) and delivery dates • All open issues are sufficiently described and a projected resolution date is given for each 	5
Appendices A, B, & C, title page, table of contents, versioning control page <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Each appendix is clear, concise, and contains all information specified in the SRS instructions 	10

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • All signatures are present and each is dated • Professional looking title page with appropriate information • Well-formatted table of contents with appropriate information • Document Versioning Control page is filled in (first release should be 1.0)
Writing style, grammar, and formatting <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Writing style is clear and concise • All sections contain a brief introduction • All figures and tables are both numbered and labeled and referred to in the text • Spelling, capitalization, and grammar are correct according to the writing resources given on the course web site. • Document is neatly formatted, using appropriate fonts, margins, and spacing 	10
Total:	80
			The document was late
			The corresponding draft was late
Final Total:			